Washington Loses Dual Meet to Visiting Athletes—

Score, 71 to 60.

"CRUM" DAILY IS STAR.

Break Campus Record in Discus.

Oregon Agricultural college won the dual meet with the University of Washington on University field by a 71 to 60 score yesterday afternoon after the teams battled neck and neck for every point and the score never varied more than six points. When Carter broke the tape in the 220-yard dash a breast ahead of "Crum" Dalley, the last event before the relay went to the Aggies and won the meet.

With Swan, their best runner, crippled with a broken rib received in the meet with W. S. C. last week, the Aggies were held down to second and third places in the first few events, but the team managed to break even with Vander Year's men by taking seven firsts. Swan won the mile, finishing ten yards ahead of Washington's man, and was running in a dead heat with McDonald in the two-mile when he was forced to drop out on account of his injury after putting up a game fight for his place.

Dalley Is Star.

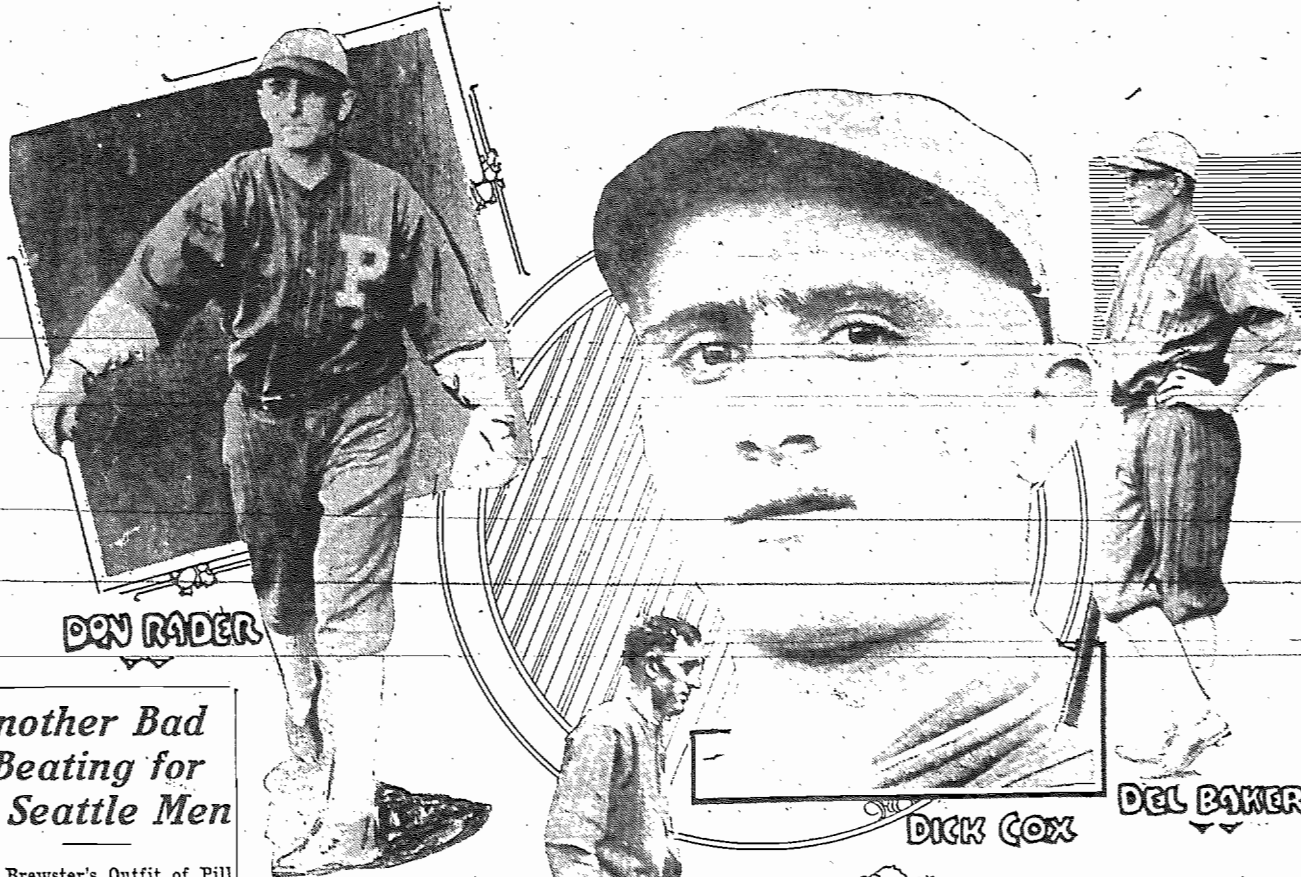

"Crum" Dalley was high point man yesterday, scoring thirteen points, while Elkman, for O. A. C., crowded him with eleven. Dalley placed first in the century, second in the 220 and broad jump and third in the high and low hurdles. Elkman copped first in the high hurdles and second in the low hurdles and discus. Capt. Gray gathered seven and Ernest Goodner six for Washington.

Breaks Campus Record.

Gus Pope broke a campus record when he hurled the discus for 135 feet 8 inches, and won another first in the shot put. Southwick, a new man on the purple and gold squad, upset the forecast when he threw the javelin 120 feet and placed second against Butler. Pope's record in the discus had not been equaled in a college meet in the United States this year. Dalley and Carter ran practically a dead heat in the 100-yard dash, the University of Washington man snapping the tape a few inches ahead of the Beaver. In the two-mile race Davis, for Washington, gave the spectators a pretty exhibition when sprinted the last 220 yards and won, with McDonald seventy yards behind. The finishes of all the shorter races were unusually close.

Although the competition was as close in the meet as was expected, all the events, with but a few exceptions,

Brewster to Give Clymer More Chance

Despite Unsatisfactory Showing of Club, Manager to Stay.

SOME CHANGES ARE DUE.

Seattle President is After More Pitchers—Portland Here Wednesday.

By ROYAL BROUGHAM.

Like Gil Dobie, Jim Brewster goes fishing when he has something on his mind. Brewster went fishing yesterday. And when William Clymer leads his humbled athletes back to the home city this coming Tuesday, the Seattle president is going to relieve his weary brain of a few choice thoughts which have been mobilizing ever since his club began to break all existing records for losing ball games for pitching the Seattle club into the next to the last trench. But Clymer is not going to lose his job when he returns. In the first place, the Seattle boss is biggest for the season, at one of the fairest salaries in the minors. But even if his contract could be broken, Brewster has no intention of removing Clymer from his job as head of the club. Not yet.

"We are going to give Mr. Clymer every chance in the world to make good," Brewster said Saturday morning. "The fans must remember that he was handicapped greatly. The good players of the country were all gone before he took up the task of forming a club and since the season's opening, he has had trouble with injuries right and left. I will say this much—if Clymer can't make good, he is going to go. But we are not going to judge too hastily."

Admits Pitchers Weak.

Brewster admits the pressing need for pitchers. But he also knows that good hitters are just as important, and he is experiencing great difficulty in securing twirlers.

The men behind baseball in this city will tell the world and Washington that boosting a baseball team is no sweet task. The stockholders have sunk enough money into the club to build a battleship, but have been unfortunate in the selection of players. A hotshot, a star, came here and was a failure—and $1,500 was shot. Bobby

Seattle President Is After More Pitchers—Portland Here Wednesday.

By ROYAL BROUGHAM.

LIKE GIU DODIE, Jim Brewster goes fishing when he has something on his mind. Brewster went fishing yesterday. And when William Clymer leads his humbled athletes back to the city this coming Tuesday, the Seattle president is going to relieve his weary brain of a few choice thoughts which have been mobilizing ever since his club began to break all existing records for losing ball games too last year.

There is something radically wrong with Seattle's ball club, and every fan is wondering what Brewster is going to do about it. Up to Saturday morning, the Rainier press didn't know. That's why he closed up the cigar plant and went fishing.

Clymer the Storm Center.
Bill Clymer is the storm center in the highways and by-ways the fans are discussing the fiery pilot of the Rainiers. The more rapid of the patrons are demanding Clymer's scalp.

Coming with a million dollar reputation, the Eastern baseball expert has not won any laurels for piloting the Seattle club into the next to the last trench. But Clymer is not going to lose his job when he returns. In the first place, the Seattle boss is signed for the season, at one of the fanciest salaries in the minors. But even if his contract could be broken, Brewster has no intention of removing Clymer from his job as head of the club. Not yet.

"We are going to give Mr. Clymer every chance in the world to make good," Brewster said Saturday morning. "The fans must remember that he was handicapped greatly. The good players of the country were all gone. I took up the task of forming a club and since the season's opening, he has had trouble with injuries right and left. I will say this much—if Clymer can't make good, he is going to go. But we are not going to jinx him hastily."

Admits Pitchers Weak.
Brewster admits the pressing need for pitchers. But he also knows that good heavies are not growing on trees, and is experiencing great difficulty in securing twirlers.

The men behind baseball in this city will tell the world and way stations that bossing a baseball team is no sweet task. The stockholders have sunk enough money into the club to build a battleship, but have been unfortunate in the selection of players. Willard, a star, came here and was a five-er—and $1,500 was shot. Bobby Schang cost a cool $1,000. Fabrique set the club back a fat sum, and several other men who are not delivering, made a huge dent in the club strong box. But, the bunch behind the team is game. Every one of the directors is still determined that Seattle shall have a winning team, and some changes for the better may be expected at any time.

Portland Here Wednesday.
Portland came here Wednesday for the first game of the series. McCree has his team playing good ball now, and Clymer will have plenty of competition. Bill will be glad to escape from the heavy-hitting Angel outfit, however, and may pull the team together and make a creditable showing against the Beavers.

The team will look much different than when last seen here. The infield has not been shifted. Jim Walsh is handling the third sack; Derick is giving Fabrique a fight for the short field berth, and Herb Murphy has been jerked. Harry Harper is holding down a spot in the outfield. Cunningham is moving over to center.

Two new pitchers, Alonzo and Beer, have joined the team in the spring, but it is doubtful if Clymer will bring the former north, after his second beating Saturday.

The terrible shape which his twirling corps is in is well illustrated by the fact that Clymer had to use Gleichman in the box Saturday, probably saving Mills for Sunday's game.

Champion Working Hard for Dempsey—Tells Some Stories of His Former Fights and Discusses Big Go.

By ROBERT EDGREN.
Special to The Post-Intelligencer.
WILLARD'S TRAINING CAMP, Los Angeles, May 24.—Jess Willard is working like a Trojan for Jack Dempsey. The champion has changed his schedule, boxing every morning with Jack Hemple, the only heavyweight Los Angeles is able to supply.

Willard is going to be in shape by July 4. He is in superb condition right now.

I had my first glimpse of Willard in many months when I called for him at the studio. Roy Archer, his manager, went in and brought Jess to the street from the door I had a shock. He looked like a walking corpse. His face was of a ghastly, transparent tallowy color. But it was only the movie actor's grease paint. There was nothing corpse-like in his six feet seven as he came out briskly and extended the big paw that laid Jack Johnson flat.

Also at the first glance I noted that if Jess Willard ever weighed 300 pounds, as report had it a few months ago, he doesn't weigh it now. His clothes covered no rounded paunch, and his belt was drawn to the normal notch without cutting into him. He had no double chin, and while his face was round and smooth there were no fleshy folds extending from the sides of the nose to the outer corners of the mouth. This in a large man inclined to weight, is an unfailing sign of fat

WILLARD LEAVES SOUTH TO START TRAINING MONDAY

Heavyweight Champion Will Be Off for Toledo Tomorrow for Title Match.

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—Jess Willard, champion heavyweight boxer, announced today he would leave Los Angeles Monday for Toledo, where he will fight Jack Dempsey July 4.

Willard has been in light training here for some days. He said he was in first-class condition, and his appearance bore out his assertion.

The champion will stay a day or two at Chicago to look after some business, he said, and then will continue to Toledo, where he will arrive not later than June 4. Willard's manager, Roy Archer, and his sparring partners, Charles Miller and Walter Hempel, both of San Francisco, will leave here with Willard.

he weighed at Havana. There were no scales in his place, but he looks about 260 stripped. As he weighed 255 when he began training to fight Johnson this is not at all an excessive weight.

Willard's body was thicker and heavier, around waist and hips, than at Havana, but no heavier than in the Moran fight. It could hardly be expected that he would be in fighting form 10 months before the Dempsey match.

Southwick, a new man on the purple and gold squad, upset the forecasts when he threw the javelin 120 feet and placed second against Butler. Pope's record in the discus has not been equaled in a college meet in the United States this year.

In the two-mile race Davis, for Washington, gave the spectators a pretty exhibition when he sprinted the last 220 yards and won, with McDonald seventy yards behind. The finishes of all the shorter races were unusually close.

Although the competition was as close in the meet as was expected, all the events, with but a few exceptions, went for less gain than the recent dual meet between California and Stanford. When these four universities and Washington State college and Oregon meet on the same field in the conference met next Saturday the Northerners will have to more than equal the records made yesterday in order to place against the two Southern teams.

Another Bad Beating for Seattle Men

Jim Brewster's Outfit of Pill Chasers Are Licked by Angels, 11 to 1.

Special to The Post-Intelligencer.

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—One left Washington park today under the impression that a hostile aviator had dropped a large bomb loaded with mixed high explosives and spaghetti in the center of the diamond, but it went down in the records as a ball game.

Suffering its fifth fearful slaughter of the week, Seattle went from bad to worse, losing 11 to 1, and it was the general consensus of opinion that the Angels could have won with their hands in their pockets.

Only a superhuman team could assimilate as much punishment as has been the portion dealt out to Seattle this week.

It Was a Swat Fest.

Los Angeles leaned on various assorted pitchers for twenty hits—ranging from one baggers to triples. Such battling hardly seems possible this late in May, when pitchers are presumed to be coiling up and tightening with each succeeding day, but there are several thousand persons who saw it with their naked eyes.

Pertica had a high old time, with nothing to worry about. Seattle got its daily run in the fifth, when Schang and Fabrique singled and Harper came along with a safety that was labelled "Harper's Weekly." As the fifth inning was located right in the middle of the game solemn Bill got to thinking it was between halves and had almost quit pitching when the three hits brought him to a full realization of the situation. That's how they came to get the three hits. The horrors of baseball were brought home to the visitors in the second when the Angels scored their customary two hits. From then on it was simply a runaway.

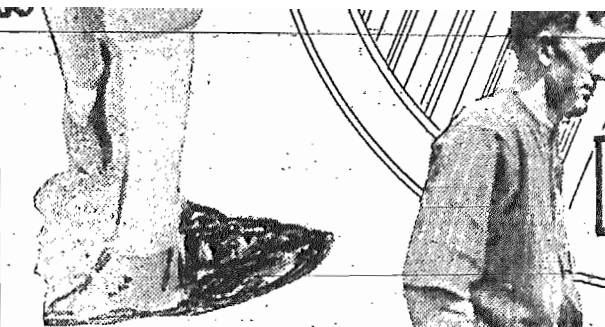

Clymer early in the day asked Killefer why he let Ralph Valencia go. Red didn't reply at the time, but the Angels answered the question by knocking Ralph out in the third. Clymer walked out, yanked the kid, and with the crowd standing aghast motioned Gleichman from first base to the box, and sent Walsh in to hold down the initial sack.

The crisis that called Gloomy Gus into the hottest part of the battle was in the third with two out after the bases had been cleaned off of four runners by hard and fast hitting.
