Korea 65: The Forgotten War Remembered Writing, Art & Film Contest 2017

Korea 65 is an educational project that features a series of oral-history profiles and a public exhibit that will cast light on a forgotten conflict—one that killed millions, separated families and helped shape the Pacific Northwest. In first-person accounts, visitors to the Capitol and online readers will relive the war and the lessons we continue to learn 65 years later. This project will share stories of both courage and perseverance that shouldn't be forgotten. Moreover, Korea 65 includes grade school curriculum to explore the connection between the war and Washington State.

This important project includes a series of online profiles and an interactive exhibit opening in September 2017 inside the State Capitol Building. The exhibit features compelling photographs, little-known facts and personal artifacts. It will eventually travel to museums around the state.

Contest Details:

Legacy Washington is sponsoring an art, writing and film contest for 6-12th grade students in Washington State. The contest runs from Sept. 6 to Nov. 30 of 2017. We invite educators to participate in this unique opportunity. Through the Korea 65 project, young people will explore the question of “How does the Korean War affect Washington today?” This exploration and analysis can be unveiled in multiple creative formats including writings, film projects or 2-dimensional art.

A panel of judges will choose and announce a winner from each category early in 2017 (for grades 6-8 and grades 9-12). Winners will be invited to a ceremony in the Secretary of State's Office where they will be presented with a special certificate and gift card. Winning pieces will also be posted on the Secretary of State's website, featured in SOS publications and appear alongside the Korea 65 exhibit.
